Reading the diagram. Each rectangle represents a user interface identified by its page ID and title. Arrows represent navigation paths between interfaces, triggered by user actions such as button clicks, form submissions, or automatic redirects from the router guard layer. Interfaces are grouped into five access areas: Public (open to all visitors without authentication), Booking Flow (multi-step reservation journey for authenticated clients), Client Area (personal dashboard and reservation management), Admin Area (full venue management for venue owners), and Staff Area (live floor operations for assigned staff members). Dialogs (D1–D10) are modal overlays launched from within their host page and do not constitute standalone routes.
